A HUNDRED YEARS A HERO.

How Seth Warner Won a Wife and Became Famous.

Col. Seth Warner, of Vermont, the famous hero of the Revolutionary war, was a leading fighter for the Hampshire grants.

These titles were disputed by the State of New York, and its authorities obtained an edict of the King of England in their favor. The settlers were stung by the supposed injustice. This state of things brought Colonel Seth Warner to the front. With Ethan Allen and others, he actively approved every effort of the New York state authorities to enforce possession, and finally he, with Allen and others, were outlawed and a price put on their heads:

To circumvent New York, it was necessary that some one should go into that State and gain required information. Col. Warner, assuming for safety the name of "Dr. Howard," undertook this perilous and romantic journey.

While on his way home he stopped at a country inn, where an old gentleman and daughter were storm-bound. The father fell ill and the daughter called upon Colonel Warner, who, with his wide knowledge of simple remedies, successfully treated the "old man," and he finally won this devoted woman for a wife. Such incidents were not uncommon in those years. When the doctor was not easily reached, months of sickness, and even life were often saved by some unprofessional friend versed in the use of simple herbs and roots. The health of early settlers and their powers of endurance convinced us that such medicines did only good and left no poison in the blood to work as much injury to the system as would disease itself.

In time of peace the Colonel was in constant demand for his knowledge of simple remedies and their power over disease. But it was left to another of his name of the present age to give to the public what was then used with such positive success. Warner for over a hundred years has shared with Ethan Allen the admiration of the American people.

Colonel Seth Warner belongs to a family of wide distinction; no less than eight members thereof won fame in the regular practice of medicine.

Looking to the adoption by the people of this generation of the old time simple remedies, his direct descendant, H. H. Warner, the well-known proprietor of Warner's Safe Cure, for many years has been experimenting with old time roots and herb formulae and, his search having been finally rewarded with success, he gives the world the result. These recipes and formulae in other days accomplished great things because they were purely vegetable and combined simply so as to cure the disease indicated, without injury to the system. In harmony with their old times character, we learn that he proposes to call them Warner's Log Cabin Remedies, using as a trade mark an old-fashioned American log cabin. We understand that he intends to put forth a "Sarsaparilla" for the blood, the sarsaparilla itself being but one of a number of simple and effective elements; "Log Cabin Hops and Buche," "a general stomach tonic and invigorator," "Log Cabin Cough and Consumption Remedy," "Warner's Log Cabin Scalp" for the hair; a preparation for that universal disease catarrh, called "Log Cabin Rose Cream;" "Warner's Log Cabin Plasters;" and "Warner's Log Cabin Liver Pills" which are to be used in connection with the other remedies, or independently, as required.

Warner's safe remedies are already standards of the most pronounced scientific value in all parts of the world, and we have no doubt the Log Cabin Remedies, for the diseases they are intended to cure, will be of equal merits, for Mr. Warner has the reputation of connecting his name with no preparation that is not meritorious.

TOBACCO.

CLARKSVILLE AS FOREIGNERS SAW IT.

Big Convention of Cigar Manufacturers and What it Did—News of the Weed in Many Shapes—The Local Market Report etc.

A load of new tobacco, consisting of some short green stuff was sold in Harrison's warehouse in Owenboro Wednesday for $5, $3 25 and 50 cents.

According to Custom House returns the receipts of Sumatra tobacco at the port of New York in October amounted to 6,071 bales, whereof 5,020 bales were classified at 55 cents duty.

National Convention.

The third National Convention of the leading Cigar Manufacturers Association met recently at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, Philadelphia, and the deliberations on the subject of asking Congress to abolish the tax on cigars resulted in a vote of 11 for, and 25 against the proposition. Some of the resolutions passed were very complimentary to the government system of revenue from this source as they claimed it to be a protection rather than a hindrance to the trade. Some other very important business was transacted, and the meeting adjourned to enjoy a grand banquet.

The importance of Clarksville as a tobacco market, and as a shipping point for the luxurious plant is becoming world famed. In September last a party of English gentlemen came to America to attend a convention at Washington City, and as some of them were interested in tobacco, they took time by the forelock and visited Cincinnati, Louisville, Clarksville and Richmond. Upon their return to England, one of the party furnished facts and figures to several leading English newspapers, and the articles speak highly of the tobacco from this section, and of our tobacco merchants; the many warehouses and stemmeries that are here, and particularly of the constant increase of the tobacco trade for the past several years. The information about this city as printed, covered one column in most of the papers, and represented Clarksville as next to Louisville in point of the bulk of tobacco handled.

News to Planters.

We, the undersigned warehousemen of Clarksville, Tenn., hereby agree to discount the receiving of tobacco at New Providence. We will not incur any expense for the delivery of tobacco from or through that point except as ordinarily charged to shipper's account on tobacco from other points. We will keep no receiving houses open at New Providence, nor will we be responsible for tobacco left with other parties consigned to us at New Providence. This expressly forbids the payment of toll at the bridge.

[New York Tobacco Leaf]

In 1892 the United States tobacco planters raised 136,751,746 lbs of tobacco; in 1885 the crop was 562,736,000 lbs. In 1892 the tobacco plantations covered an area of 134,568 acres; in 1885 the area was 752,520 acres. The tobacco crop in 1892 realized $16,307,996; that of 1885 was valued at $15,263,508. The greatest increase took place in 1895-96, after the war. It is worthy of note that not only the yield per acre, but the value of the produce also, now decreased with the extension of tobacco growing. In 1892 the average produce of an acre was 1,019 lbs. of tobacco; in 1785 it was only 747-8 lbs. and in some years lower still. In 1874 there was a failure of the crop, and the average was 630 lbs. per acre. In 1893 the tobacco fetched, on an average, 14.9c. per lb.; in 1885 it was only 7.7c. The revenue receipts from tobacco (import duty, licenses, excise duty) were $1,007,620 in 1893, and $27,007,803 in 1889. The total receipts of these twenty-four years amounted to $720,000,000 ($144,000,000), being at an average rate of $30,000,000 ($6,000,000) a year.

Clarksville Tobacco Market.

CLARKSVILLE, TENN., Nov. 24, 1887.

The patience of holders seem at last likely to reap its reward, as our market at last starts on the upward turn, which we hope will continue until we at least recover July prices. The offerings at the Tobacco Exchange were over 400 hogheads, most of which met a ready sale at a full advance upon last week's prices. Lugs were strong and leaf from medium to fine, smartly higher. Spain continues largely inarrows, and she may take from the markets 3,000 to 5,000 hogheads at any time, which would give a good impetus to low grades, which look cheap at present prices. The rain may give a tobacco season, and if it does not, will at least improve the color of the tobacco hanging in the barns.
